EDITORIAL.

THE statistician is the inevitable product of a mechanical age, and armed with his fountain-pen and logarithmic tables, he subjects every human action and reaction to an intensive scrutiny, and appends his results in the shape of formulae. One fully appreciates his endeavours in exploring his legitimate avenues of research, and even in other directions his efforts are useful, but he errs through excess and lack of discrimination.

The realms of higher statistics are far too crowded with square-root signs and Greek letters to afford much interest to the uninitiated, but there is a certain fascination in indulging in the elementary principles. Our Mickey Mug competitions were reduced to tabular form, which certainly did not detract from our enjoyment. On the contrary it provided much material for future debates, and we revelled in its simplicity. There would probably have been more debates but less understanding had we stepped beyond the limits of moderation and compiled tables comparing the thermo-dynamic capacities of the various teams. Based upon this standard perhaps we might even have been victorious in the Herlihy Cup!

The true field of research in sport, and the one which provides the statistician with the greatest delight, is Cricket. Here he marshals figures, dissects, compares, produces numbers with a long procession of digits behind the decimal point, and even toys carelessly with infinity. His equations and mental acrobatics may please him, but the more inspiring aspects of the game often escape him entirely. What are mere figures compared to the intensely interesting match against the Military XI? The game between St. Joseph's and ourselves, when both sides were represented by XIs consisting entirely of boys, can never be truly reflected merely by a series of cyphers. Then shifting to the sphere of Athletics—numbers were only a guide to point to the success of our boys, but the winning of the Dewar Shield was to us the most important feature.

However, in the following pages we have compromised, and the statistician must be satisfied with the small space allotted him when we bowed to his whims.

SCHOOL NOTES.

When the new term opens next year we shall miss the Rector and Mrs. Goddard, who are leaving for England. They sail on the "Circassia" on February the 11th, and will return at the end of September. We all take this opportunity of wishing them a very happy holiday. Mr. Clarke will officiate in the interim and to him we extend our very best wishes.

This year we welcome a number of new members on the Staff. Mr. N. P. Ellicott was appointed Latin Master in place of the Rev. C. B. Alexander. He took his B.A. and B.T. from the Calcutta University, and has also taught at Bishop Cotton School, Bangalore.

Mr. G. A. L. Elloy came to us as Master of the Shell form. He was trained at the Chelmsford Training College, Ghora Gali, and taught at the Lawrence College, Murree, before taking up his appointment at St. Paul's.

We welcome Mrs. B. S. S. Bull, who took the place of Miss B. B. Robinson in the Junior School.

Mrs. Collett came to us from Victoria School, to be Matron of the Junior School Hall.

Mrs. O'Sullivan we welcome as Matron of Cotton Hall.

We were sorry to lose Mrs. Duffy, who was only with us a short time as Matron of Lyon Hall.

Also on the Staff this year has been Mr. T. W. Morgan, who worked for Mr. Bruce when the latter was unfortunate enough to go to Calcutta with paralysis. We would here extend our most sincere sympathy towards Mr. Bruce. We are glad at the time of writing to hear more favourable reports concerning his condition, and we trust that he will now speedily return to his normal health.

Major Drummond and Captain Fisher have been our Civil Surgeons this year, and we thank them for their services.

We are also deeply indebted to Rev. J. R. Beynon, Chaplain of Lebong who, almost throughout the whole year, has acted as Chaplain of the School in the absence of a resident chaplain.

Mr. Ouvry returns to England to take up his residence at Westcott House, Cambridge. There he will proceed with the second part of the General Ordination Examination, prior to taking Holy Orders. He was at St. Paul's for three years, and was a very enthusiastic Scout-Master. The Junior School will miss his gramophone recitals greatly. It is with regret we bid him good-bye, and we wish him every success for the future.

Mr. Warrington is spending his Winter Vacation in England. Though brief, we hope his holiday will be a pleasant one.

The marriage of Patrick Nigel Ellicott to Joan Daphne Aldridge, by the Rev. Keith Brodie, took place at St. Paul's Church, Asansol, on the 28th of December. We wish them both every happiness.

The new Junior School Staff Quarters which were built last year have been occupied since the beginning of this. They have proved most satisfactory to those inhabiting them, and the envy of many of the rest.

New this year has been the formation of a billiard club among the Staff. Mr. Henson was elected President, and under him the table was completely renovated. Two tournaments were held and provided some very interesting matches. The first, a Billiards 'Doubles' Tournament, was won by Mr. Elloy and Mr. Ouvry, whilst the winners of the second, a Carolina Doubles' Tournament, were the Rector and Mr. Wilson.

It was with deep regret that we said good-bye to H. E. Sir John Anderson, who has always taken a great interest in St. Paul's. To H. E. Lord Brabourne we extend a cordial welcome.

We welcome to Bengal Dr. Thomas, the new Inspector of European Schools in this Province. He has paid us two unofficial visits in addition to his official one in September. We trust that his impressions of St. Paul's were in nowise impaired by the three very rainy days he experienced here.

The first lecture of the year was on April the 18th. This was given by Mr. Chalmers on "Himalayan Treks". Known already from his lecture last year on his walk from India to England, this year he proved equally interesting and instructive.

On May the 25th, L. L. Hodgson Esq. gave a cinema talk on "The People of the Hills"—also very interesting. Mr. Hodgson is Calcutta Secretary to the British and Foreign Bible Society.

Equally good were the lectures by Miss Florence on Central and East Africa, on July 28th; and by G. Hicken Esq. on Kashmir and the North West Frontier, on September the 25th.

K. K. Majumdar delivered a lecture to the upper forms in the Physics Laboratory on the "Aero-Engine", which was much appreciated.

On October the 25th Harold Scott Esq. gave a most enjoyable piano-recital in the Prep Hall.

St. Paul's School was gaily decorated with Union-Jacks and coloured lights on the occasion of the Coronation of Their Majesties King George VI and Queen Elizabeth.

Holy Communion was celebrated in the morning, and at 9 a.m. the Senior School attended Service at St. Andrew's. Afterwards there was a Special Coronation Parade in the Market Square, in which the Cadet Contingent of St. Paul's took part.

At 2.45 p.m. the whole School, and many friends and parents assembled in the Big Hall to hear the broadcast of the Service at Westminster Abbey. Later in the evening the Senior School went to Darjeeling to see the decorations and illuminations.

We witnessed some very enjoyable House-Concerts this year, which helped to relieve the monotony of the Monsoon. Each of the four Houses provided an entertainment, and displayed a great variety of ideas and talent. The main difficulty in efforts of this kind is to avoid being stereotyped, but this obstacle was overcome and much originality was shown. It was revealed that we have many promising actors and play-writers, whilst some of the scenic effects were excellent. We thank all those who were responsible for some very pleasant evenings.

The Junior School gave a performance of the Nativity Play "The Three Roses", largely as a farewell to Mr. Ouvry who had done so much for them. It was delightfully done and was much appreciated by all. Miss Magry is to be congratulated on the play and on the exquisite costumes.

This year for the first time in the history of the two Schools, St. Paul's and St. Joseph's played a cricket match between representative XIs of boys. It was a thoroughly enjoyable and instructive game, and, we hope, will be the prelude to many more.

We congratulate the Athletic Team on its highly creditable effort in winning the Dewar Inter-Schools Athletic Shield. They came first with 123 points, and St. Joseph's were second with 80. This is the first time that St. Paul's has won the Shield.

An innovation this year is the new blazers for those boys who win their Hockey or Football Colours. They are similar to the ones for Cricket, but are deep maroon with white piping. They have School buttons, whilst the School Mitre and appropriate lettering are worked in white on the pockets, the whole appearing most distinctive.

P. C. Sawhney appears in December for a Cambridge Science Scholarship, and if he achieves his aim it will be a very great distinction. We wish him every success.

It was with great pleasure that we learnt that D. K. Palit was placed 5th in the Entrance Examination to the Indian Military Academy. He left for Dehra Dun on January the 28th. We offer him our heartiest congratulations.

Rector and School Prefects

Maung i Mackertich i	Palit i Beard	Roy i Rector	Lingwood Duffy	Lall
-------------------------	------------------	-----------------	-------------------	------

L. Beard and L. Duffy are to be congratulated on gaining appointments in Bird and Co. They go to join A. Beard who is evidently giving satisfaction to his employers.

We extend our gratitude to:—

P. S. S. Keelan Esq. for his gift of furniture for Staff Quarters.

Mr. F. S. Hargraves for his gift of a School crest beautifully embroidered on black velvet, for the Hall on special occasions.

All Schools and Colleges who have sent us copies of their magazines.

All those who in one way or another have helped St. Paul's.

Colours have been awarded this year as follows:—

Cricket—A. Bapty.

Football—G. Maung and H. Ricks.

Hockey—R. Mackertich, N. Lingwood, A. Bapty, B. Jefford and S. Beckdahl.

OLD PAULITE NEWS.

Maurice Broughton is now Secretary in Calcutta. He has recently become engaged to the sister of Arthur Bell.

Sir Frank Connor has just retired and has returned to England.

Neville Gregory has gone to St. Lawrence College, Ramsgate, to take his Higher School Certificate in Mathematics, and then to go up to Cambridge.

Hobson is doing very well at Herne Bay College. He is at the top of his form, and a prominent member of all games' sides.

P. S. Keelan C.I.E. has retired from Andrew Yule's and has settled at Victoria Cottage, North Point. He is a very good friend indeed to the School.

The Nawab of Dacca, another Old Paulite, holds a position in the Cabinet. He is most enthusiastic about St. Paul's.

J. W. Archard is now a sub-Editor of the Statesman.

The following is an extract that will prove of interest to many Old Paulites.

"The engagement is announced between George Edward Baldry of Pussimbing, Darjeeling, second son of Major and Mrs. Baldry, and Hazel Ellen, second daughter of Mr. W. F. Webster, M.B.E., and Mrs. Webster of Hazaribagh."

We are always anxious for news of those who have been at St. Paul's and any letter concerning them will be great interest to us. It is our purpose not only to make the Chronicle a very real link between the past and the present, but also to keep Old Paulites in touch with each other. The Old Paulite Dinner fulfils this function to a certain extent, but there are many Old Boys too widely scattered to avail themselves of the opportunity. We would therefore welcome any information that should prove of interest to Old Paulites.

SPEECH DAY.

Speech Day at St. Paul's School was held on the morning of October the 11th, under the patronage of Major-General G. M. Lindsay. A large gathering of parents and friends of the School were present, and we were also favoured with a visit from His Reverence the Metropolitan of India. General Lindsay first inspected the School Corps, which was drawn up as a Guard of Honour, before proceeding to the Hall. The Rector addressed the assembly as follows:—

GENERAL LINDSAY, LADIES AND GENTLEMEN,

It is a very real pleasure to be able to welcome General Lindsay to our Speech Day this year. When I first asked him to preside, he felt he was too much of what he called a 'bird of passage' to do so. Soldiers are inevitably 'birds of passage' wherever they may be. Even after retiring, many of them remain on the move! But it was largely because General Lindsay was a man who had seen a great deal of the world that I wanted him here to-day. We welcome him too because of his interest and belief in youth, and particularly for the interest which he has taken in our schools in Darjeeling since he came here. We are apt to become isolated in a place like this. For that reason, contacts with the outside world are always of the greatest value.

I must also welcome the Metropolitan to yet another Speech Day. Though one can scarcely describe him as a 'bird of passage', yet he comes and he goes, and he sees more of Bengal, and of the world too, than most of us. It is always a pleasure to have him in our midst.

Day

Beard asking General
Lindsay for a holiday

I am also glad to be able to welcome again so many parents and friends. We appreciate to the full the interest you take in our progress and welfare, and we are most grateful for the help and support you are continually extending to us. No one is more welcome at St. Paul's than you are .

Before I pass on to brief resumé of the year that is gradually drawing to its close, I want to apologise for the alterations which had to be made so suddenly in to-day's timings. It was not until the printed Poojah programme was published that I realised that our Speech Day Celebrations and the Government House Garden Party were going to take place at the same time. It was obviously impossible to move the Garden Party, so, on the suggestion of Colonel Butler, and with the ready approval of General Lindsay, we put our function in the morning. I trust that this alteration has not put any of you to serious inconvenience.

Life at a School like St. Paul's moves very rapidly indeed. Sometimes it moves more rapidly than others, as your sons will tell you! But it always moves! And as is the way with Darjeeling, the winter is upon us whilst we are still looking for the summer! It seems but a very short time ago since Sir Edward Benthall was presiding last year at a function similar to this.

In comparison with previous years, 1937 has been almost uneventful. And perhaps that is as well. For we have needed breathing space to take stock and to consolidate the expansion of the last three years. The main feature of the year has been the absence of builders from the Compound. They came here early in 1934 to repair the Earthquake damage, and they remained here almost continuously until the end of last year. But having no more money to spend, and not being allowed to borrow, we have not seen them since! This has been an undisguised blessing. Not only have we been able to become accustomed to our renovated buildings; we have also been able to do a good deal more work. And despite what you hear to the contrary, a lot of work is still done in Schools!

There is little more to be said about our buildings. I have said quite enough in the past. Suffice it to say, that on account of the recent additions we are now far more efficient than we were, whilst both Staff and boys are much more comfortable. The new buildings have not yet been entirely paid for. We still need money to cover the cost of the work which had to be undertaken in order to restore the buildings, and make them efficient. Money is a great problem with all schoolmasters in India. I have no doubt that as long as I remain here, I shall always be needing it and asking for it. I sometimes feel that that is my main function in life.

The important thing about School buildings, however, is to have them full of boys. In that sense our buildings are more than justified, for we are as full as we can be. This year we have had as many as two hundred and twenty-one boys on the rolls; an increase of over a hundred in the last three years. Moreover we are already practically full up for 1938. Boys, too, come to us from places as far afield as Bombay, the North West Frontier Province, and the Andamans. Next year we shall have a number of boys coming to us from England. I have even had applications from Australia and South America. But what is even more pleasing is the steadily increasing number of boys coming to us from Old Boys and Planters living in this District.

Scholastically, the School has maintained its progress of recent years. Last year, our examination results were better than ever before. And they were not only well above the average of European Schools in India; they were as good as those of any other School in this Province. We entered ten boys for the Cambridge School Certificate, of whom eight passed. Of the two boys who failed, one had only been with us for a year; the other perhaps had been here too long! In the Junior Cambridge we entered nine boys, all of whom passed. Thus during the last three years, not a single boy from this School has failed the Junior Cambridge. Next year we are going to take this examination from the IVth Form instead of from the Vth. That will enable boys to spend a full two years over the Senior Cambridge, or School Certificate examination, and so receive a wider and more liberal education.

One of our senior boys, who passed the Higher Certificate two years ago, has just left us to go to England, where in December he is sitting for a Cambridge Science scholarship. These scholarships are very difficult to get, and we shall be delighted if Sawhney is successful. It is no mean achievement to be, as it were, within striking distance of such an honour.

For the first time in the history of the School, some of our boys took the I.Sc. examination of Calcutta University last February. Of four entries, two passed, one in the First Division and another in the Second. We are not content with only 50 per cent. passes, and we are confident of better results this year. But it was a satisfactory beginning, for the examination was new, not only to the boys, but also to the Staff.

The results of our affiliation with Calcutta University are gradually becoming apparent. Our prefects are older, and, I think, have a better sense of their responsibilities. That is naturally having a wholesome effect on the tone and discipline of the School, whilst the prefects themselves are receiving excellent training in leadership and self-reliance. They should be very much better citizens when they do go out into the world, for this extra year at School.

On account of the affiliation too, our games XIs are much bigger and more efficient than they were. It has always been customary in these parts for Masters to take their places, where they are good enough, in representative School XIs. Sometimes in the past we have had too many Staff in our sides, not because we Masters were so good as because the boys were so small and undeveloped. This has now to a large extent rectified itself. The boys have grown bigger, as is the way with boys, and fewer and fewer Staff are able to retain their places in the various XIs. And that is as it should be. The main function of all Games' Masters is not so much to play as to coach. Happy is the man who can do both. In the near future, I hope we shall have an All Boys' XI representing the School in all the open Darjeeling Tournaments. That is our aim.

From the point of view of games we have had another successful year. We have brought no trophies up the Hill, but we have had some excellent games. Sometimes I feel we are all the better for not having won any cups or shields. There is a great danger in these days of placing too great an emphasis on the value of games. I do not know whether it is worse in Darjeeling than anywhere else, but it is certainly unhealthy. A boy is not necessarily a good fellow just because he happens to be good at some particular game, any more than a school is a good school just because it happens to win a few cups. Something of far greater importance is required. The game is still of more value and consequence than the result. The trophy is only incidental. Frequently we should be better without it. We all need to lay this to heart.

It is for this reason that we have enjoyed so much our matches with our local rivals. For the first time an All Boys' XI played St. Joseph's at cricket. We had slightly the better of a drawn game, but it was an absorbing day's cricket and most interesting to watch. And perhaps it was all the more enjoyable because neither side was striving for a cup. Certainly no Edinburgh Shield match produced so many runs in a day.

We lost the Rector's Football Cup to St. Joseph's after holding it for two years. Our Ist XI showed that it was still the best schoolboy side in the District and defeated St. Joseph's. Our Under 15 side, however, though it played pluckily, was not big enough or skilful enough to defeat its opponents. We also had some most enjoyable games against Goethals' School, both at football and hockey. The spirit in which all these games have been played has been delightful. We are always very keen to beat one another—that, after all, is any side's main duty to its opponents—but otherwise the Schools are very good friends. As the years go by, I trust these inter-school matches will become more and more a regular feature of our School life. And here I should like to pay a tribute to Father Schockear, the Rector of St. Joseph's, for all that he has done to improve the relations between our two Schools. When two rival schools can co-operate, as well as compete, you can rest assured that the right type of education is going on.

The Edinburgh Shield this year went to the best side, the Planters. They thoroughly deserved it, and we congratulate them. We drew all our games, and had two very thrilling ones, but our bowling was not sufficiently deadly to win matches in two days.

Our football was up to the previous year's standard. Again we won our way into the final of the Herlihy Cup, and again we were defeated in extra time. On the day's form I think we were the better side, and at one time it seemed that we must win the match. But it was not to be. A heavy storm turned the scales in the soldiers' favour, and the Cameronians won the game by the only goal scored. Our XI, consisting almost entirely of boys, played splendidly, and were unfortunate not to be the first civilian side to win this particular trophy. The Cameronians, however, were a good side, and played throughout in a spirit of real sportsmanship.

Our hockey was good, but we were unfortunate to be deprived of the services of our Hockey Master only two hours before we were due to play our tie against the ultimate winners of the Pliva Shield. As a result, we lost interest in the trophy earlier than we had expected. But we followed the fortunes of the District XI with considerable interest, and congratulate them on their success. If they are not satisfied that they are the best side in the neighbourhood, we are quite ready to play them again!

Until just recently, the Monsoon has been kind. But the better the Monsoon, the worse appears to be the health of Darjeeling. There has been more disease than usual about in these Hills this year. Here at St. Paul's we have had an epidemic of whooping-cough, and rather an irritating one of mumps. The latter was so mild that not one single boy was ever unable to eat his food! Apart from these we have kept very healthy, and I want to take this opportunity of thanking the two Civil Surgeons, Major Drummond and Captain Fisher for their expert care and attention, and the Hospital Matron for all that she has done for the health of the boys.

The Cadet Corps flourishes, as you have seen for yourselves to-day. It is strange to think that two and a half years ago we had to close it down because we had only six boys in the School over sixteen years of age. It is now as strong as it has ever been. The Scouts and Cubs likewise flourish.

Two Impressions of St. Pauls

Other School Clubs and Societies continue to make their various contributions to the life of the School. They are an essential part of our education here. Lectures, our own cinematograph projector, and House concerts have done much to pass the Monsoon. The concerts this year reached a particularly high standard, and those responsible for them, as well as those who took part in them, are to be warmly congratulated.

The Report of the Inspector of European Schools at the end of last year was most encouraging. He commented on the note of happiness which pervaded the School and on its excellent tone. A fortnight ago we received our first inspection from Dr. Thomas, the new Inspector, and we are awaiting his report with interest. We are very glad to have him with us again to-day.

St. Paul's is playing its part in European education, both in this Province and in India; and we are playing it to the best of our ability. But a large number of problems still lie ahead of this School, and of many similiar schools. Possibly the greatest of all is that of finding suitable employment for the boys when their education is finished. Two months ago I was in Calcutta going as carefully as I could into the question, with a number of business men. The latter were most courteous and very ready to help. But it is impossible to expect employers to create jobs. The Education Department is also taking the matter in hand, and I hope in the near future there will be some organisation in Calcutta to bring commerce and the Schools into closer contact with one another. For if it is impossible for boys to get employment when they leave school, education loses its point, and the sooner we alter our technique and methods the better.

This uncertainty about employment strikes even deeper at the heart of education. A boy who has some idea of what he is going to do when he leaves has something which gives sense and purpose to his schooling. Without it, the whole of his education becomes vague and nebulous. All education must have a sense of direction. The prevailing uncertainty affects every bit of a boy's schooldays, not merely his last year or two. It is impossible for Schools in India to do their best work until we can place before our boys a reasonable hope of finding suitable employment when their schooling is finished.

Never before have our schools had a greater opportunity before them; never were they more important than now. All over the world emphasis is on youth. One sometimes feels that there is no further place in life for the old or middle-aged. But that the hope of the world lies in its youth no one would deny. Everywhere youth is restless, bewildered. It is the function of our Schools to give a direction to the vast energies which the youth of our lands have at their command. Here we are endeavouring to direct this energy and to supply the domiciled Communities with leaders, men who know the problems with which their people are confronted and at the same time have a shrewd idea of their solutions, men whose lives are going to be based on the fundamental principles of honesty, justice, unselfishness and freedom. If we can succeed in our aim, jobs I am sure will become available for our boys, and we shall play our part in bringing in a better and a happier India.

St. Paul's, I have said, is playing its part in European education. That it continues to do so is mainly due to the individual members of the Staff; and here I wish to thank them ungrudgingly for their loyal co-operation. A nine months' term, including at least four months of rain and mist, surrounded by two hundred and twenty boys making at least two hundred and twenty different kinds of noises, is a lot for the stoutest nerve. Yet Staff go through these terms year after year, and not only do they preserve their sanity but they continue to believe in the goodness of boyhood. They are no ordinary men and women.

On his own confession, the average parent sees quite enough of his son during the three months' holiday, and is only too ready to hand him over at Sealdah station when the School batch leaves for Darjeeling. He, at least, must have a shrewd idea of the schoolmaster's patience, who puts up with his son, and two hundred others like him, for nine months at a stretch.

To the Housemasters in particular we owe a great deal. On them, in no small measure, depends the tone of the School. My debt to Mr. Clarke, my Senior Master, increases every year. I am still not as thrifty as he would like me to be, but I am trying my hardest to improve! I can pay him no better tribute than to say how happy I am to leave the School in his charge whilst I am on leave next year.

I should be ungrateful if I failed to thank the Matrons, and Mr. Wilson, the Steward, for all that they have done this year in attending to the creature comforts of the boys. Their work tends to keep them in the background of school-life, but it is none the less important for that. The prefects too have played their part and have given the school of their best. Beard minor has assumed the mantle of his elder brother, and, as school captain, has set a fine example of unselfish service and unswerving loyalty. To them all we owe our thanks.

And lastly I want to express my gratitude to the Bishop and the other members of the Governing Body for all that they have done and are continuing to do for the School. Their deep interest in St. Paul's and its welfare and their belief in its future remain a wonderful incentive and inspiration. We are most fortunate in our Governors. And especially do I wish to thank the Local Committee of the Governing Body for their ready co-operation and sympathetic help.

And now, having taken up too much of your time, I will ask General Lindsay to distribute the prizes.

There followed the distribution of prizes, after which General Lindsay gave the following address.

MY LORD BISHOP, MR. GODDARD, LADIES AND GENTLEMEN,

I would like to congratulate the Rector on the record of progress revealed to us by his speech.

It seems certain that through the united efforts of himself, and his Staff, St. Paul's School is going from strength to strength and showing a steady improvement in all departments. I am sure that I can speak for all of those present in expressing the admiration we feel for the splendid work which is being accomplished.

To-day I intend to address myself principally to those boys who are soon to leave School, and go out into the world, and to the parents and teachers, whose duty it is to prepare youth for the world, and to guide it along the path of life.

Remember, it is the mental attitude towards life that is the important thing. If the mental attitude is right then the life led will be a credit to the one who leads it, and to the community to which he belongs.

I consider that it is not only an honour to me personally, but an honour to my profession, that a soldier should have been asked to deliver this address to-day.

Yet, at the same time, I do not think that it is inappropriate for is it not true that the very qualities that go to make a successful soldier are those that make for success in any walk of life? Are they not also the very qualities which have enabled the British people to build up the British Empire, and to create that amazing co-operative community, unique in the history of the World, known to-day as the British Commonwealth of Nations?

Now what are these qualities? They do not lie in super-brains or super-athletic ability, neither of these things will of themselves, get us very far. In fact, being a very ordinary person myself, I often think that these super-people are rather a menace.

No. The great qualities which make for success in life are those of leadership, self-discipline, patience, determination, courage, and mental and physical endurance. These combined with an utter honesty of purpose, a tolerance of outlook, and a determination to be just, will give moral and physical courage, and this in turn will develop that "Will to Victory" which is an essential to success in any walk of life.

So, if our education is to be of the right kind, it must render the pupil not only mentally and physically efficient, but develop in him the qualities I have mentioned. Above all it must send him forth into the world, not merely determined to make a success of his own life, but determined also to help others, and to work for the good of his country, and of the Empire.

Now these may seem high Ideals, perhaps to some of you, a rather distant vision, yet we must have high Ideals in this life if we are to become useful citizens of our country, and of that great and far flung Empire to which we have the honour, and the good fortune, to belong.

How are we to attain these Ideals? Firstly here at School you must determine to make the utmost use of the opportunities offered you in the class-room, and in the playing-fields, to build up that foundation of mental and physical efficiency on which your future success will depend. For, remember, all you are doing here is to lay this foundation on which you, yourself, must build through experience.

For real knowledge is a combination of learning and experience. The personal experience of any one person can only be a very small thing, so unless it is backed by the collected experience of others it is of little value.

It is for a sound education to give you this experience of others, which is collected in the books, and especially in the history books, from which you learn. Without it, you will not be able to complete, through personal experience, the edifice of your education on sound foundations.

Then, when you leave school, and go out into the great world, what then?

When you get a job, determine that you will make yourself as efficient at that job as it is possible for you to become.

Leave no stone unturned to learn every detail of it. Remember that in these days we want people who really do know their work. The chap who gets through his daily routine and then thinks no more of it, and who does not try to continue his education in his spare time, will go on doing the same routine work all his life.

Then he will wonder why, while others progress, he is left in the same old rut. So, your job must come first, and all else far behind it.

Look ahead, fit yourself for promotion, do not be content only with what you are doing at the moment, but, having done that as perfectly as possible, prepare yourself for those higher positions which may be few in number, but for which it is always difficult to find suitable candidates.

At the same time remember that old saying "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy." So keep your mind fresh by keeping your body fit, for it is not overwork which does the harm, but self-indulgence and physical laziness. Flabby bodies and flabby minds usually go together.

Above all do not think that you finished your education when you left School. Far from it, you can never finish your education. You live at a time when the world is progressing in every way, mentally, materially, and socially at a rate greater than at any period in its history.

So none of us have any time to waste, for we must always be acquiring new knowledge if we are to keep up-to-date. So when you think that you have time to waste, do not waste it.

When you feel that you have nothing to do, learn something you did not know before, or improve yourself in something that you have learnt before. Above all read good books, and through them learn what people are thinking and doing. Read books and papers that give you a wide view of life, and do not confine yourself to one shade of opinion, learn about all the various opinions that are held.

Learn to think things out for yourself, that is the most important thing of all.

If you are ever destined to hold a high position then you must have a wide knowledge of life in general, of politics, of the ideas and feelings of various classes of Society, and of contemporary progress in Science and Invention.

I have heard young people say that they are bored with life. All I can say is that my experience of life has been that there was always so much to learn about, always so much of interest to do and see, so many new things to take an interest in, that I have never had time to do all I wanted to do, far less had time on my hands to get bored in.

Always take a lively interest in what is going on around you, be the chap who takes on any job that wants doing.

In doing so it is true that you add to your work, but you will soon find that you add to your interests also, and you will find that it makes you a wide-minded man of the world, instead of a hide-bound professional who knows nothing about anything but his own professional job, and a few sports and games.

One of the most important things in life is for a person to be adaptable.

Therefore one's mind must be flexible, and instructed. One must have a wide knowledge, and a wide outlook, otherwise one cannot adapt oneself quickly to new conditions. Therefore study, always study, with the object firstly of making yourself highly efficient in your profession, and secondly of having a sound knowledge of all those other things that are going on in the world around you. The person who is going to get on in life to-day is the person who not only knows his own job thoroughly, but who is ready to assist in other useful activities in his spare time, and who, by study, thought, and observation, has given himself a wide knowledge of the world, its thoughts, and its activities.

The older one gets the more one realizes how little one knows, and how much one has left undone that one ought to have done. So begin now to prepare yourselves for the responsible positions that I sincerely hope that many of you will one day occupy.

Lastly, as I have already said earlier in this address, you have had the great honour, and the great good-fortune, to be born into that world-wide family whose symbol of brotherhood is the Union Jack.

Whenever you look at that Flag, that Emblem of Freedom, remember that if you are to be worthy of your birth-right, you must live up to the Ideals which it represents, those of HONESTY, TOLERANCE, JUSTICE.

The proceedings ended with a vote of thanks to General Lindsay which was proposed by the Metropolitan in a charming and humourous speech. After the conclusion of the ceremonies light refreshments were served in the quadrangle.

CHAPEL NOTES, 1937.

For the first time for many years the School year opened without an ordained Master on the Staff. This naturally left a very big gap in the spiritual life of the School. But, owing to the ready assistance so kindly given us by the Rev. J. R. Beynon, Chaplain of Lebong, we were able to have regular Celebrations of the Holy Communion on alternate Sundays throughout the year. We are also most grateful to Mr. Beynon for helping us so generously on Sunday evenings.

We were fortunate in having so many ordained friends staying in Darjeeling at different times during the year. Many of these came forward only too readily either to celebrate for us or to preach at Evensong. And we would take this opportunity of expressing our gratitude to Mr. Ouvry for taking our Sunday evening services so regularly, and for the whole-hearted and enthusiastic manner in which he has started and run the Sunday School for the smaller boys. The latter has met a very real need in the Junior School.

Despite the united efforts of so many helpers, however, we have missed having our own Chaplain, not only on Sundays, but also in the ordinary everyday life of the School. We are looking forward all the more eagerly, therefore, to the arrival next March of our new Chaplain, the Rev. G. R. Wells.

The following boys were prepared by the Rev. J. R. Beynon, and presented to the Bishop for Confirmation, on Sunday, April 18th:—Earle E. St. C. Bartley, Alexander H. Berrie, Matthew J. Brierley, Peter A. Chaplin, Peter R. Clark, Ronald W. R. Grenyer, John Headwards, G. Rex Jeans, Ronald E. Parker, Herbert G. Paull, Rustum Roy, Douglas H. Sherman, Rowland W. G. Smith, Raymond A. W. Stidston, Brian K. Stidston, and Maurice O. Strong.

This was the first Confirmation to be held in the Memorial Chapel; it was a most impressive service.

The Number of Communicants has again been good, whilst, from our collections, we have been able to assist some very deserving causes. If giving is any indication of the tone of a school, there can be little wrong with St. Paul's. Our Chapel collections give us one of our greatest opportunities. If a boy leaves School, having learnt in some measure the joy and power which come from unselfish giving, then he has learnt one of the deepest lessons in life.

In conclusion, we should like once again to express our gratitude for all the work which has been done in the Chapel, both to beautify the building and to enrich our services. We would thank Mrs. Goddard for her care of the vestries and the Altar linen, as well as for her tasteful decoration of the Sanctuary; Mrs. Coombes for her untiring work at the organ; Mr. Warrington and the other members of the Choir for their singing and for the lead they have always given to our services; and Gregory and his fellow Servers for the help they have given in the Chapel during the past year.

MOUNTAINS.

We often wonder how this beautiful earth, which we inhabit, came into being; and if we ever try to enlighten ourselves on the subject, we are immediately confronted by several theories. Each one of these is totally different and is put forward by a different school of thought. Legend tells us a hideous and fantastic tale about it; the Bible relates a beautiful story of the creation, whilst the prosaic scientist, devoid of all imagination, denies both, and explains the formation by reducing the whole thing to atoms and molecules.

In fact, all these theories, being so different from each other, leave us at a loss. We are not prepared to believe that all the wonders of this wondrous world, the breaking east, the rosy flush, the snow-clad mountains, the beautiful smiling flowers, are nothing but electrical energy; neither are we prepared to believe the hideous and fantastic tales of Greek legend. And so by looking around on nature, we try to form our own theory.

Milton refers to the Earth as a beautiful and specially favoured planet; there is no doubt about its beauty. Everywhere we go we realize the splendour of Nature. The flowers, the trees, the purple heathered hills and dales, the valleys and the mountains, are the surroundings in which we live, and their magnificence never fails to strike us.

A sunrise—Nature's finest jewel—is beautiful near the seaside; from a desert oasis with its one or two palm-trees, it is awe-inspiring; but its finest setting is surely provided by the valleys, the mountains, and the eternal snows. The twinkling stars slowly fade away, the moon sinks behind the distant hills and for a moment even the snow-clad peaks are cast in gloom. Then the sky begins to brighten, the black shadows of the valleys disappear, and as the rosy flush of dawn colours the far eastern horizon, a wondrous change takes place. The snow-clad mountains and the stray cumulus in the sky suddenly peep out from their beds with fresh faces. And as the sun rises like a fiery sphere through a bed of multicoloured clouds, down in the valley we behold, awe-struck, Nature wielding her mighty brush.

The valleys, the mountains, the clouds, the clear sky, change from black to purple, to rose, to scarlet and a multitude of other exquisite shades, in such an indescribable manner, that we are cast into a state of enchantment. Before we emerge from our trance again, the vision is gone, and there we have, the white and shining peaks, with the deep blue back-ground, with the rich green valleys dotted with red-roofed houses, and the small mountain streams fretting their way to the plains below.

Throughout the day, the dark-clouds with their silver linings chase each other up from the valleys, winding their ways through the peaks, which seem to play at "hide and seek" with them. The bright sun moves along its daily path, and as it nears its goal the clouds once more seek out their lair; and once more the mountains begin to prove themselves the grandest setting for Nature's grandest painting.

As we gaze and gaze at the changing scenes, the rippling fleecy clouds, high in the heavens, donning their brightest garbs, and the distant snow-clad peaks clothed in magic silken robes of ever changing hue, we stand for the moment, alone with beauty. The gently fading scenes soothe and cheer the gloomiest soul, and uplift the most depressed. This exquisite mountain scenery has become the dream of the dreamer, the theme of the poet and the ideal of the artist.

The sun sinks amidst a rapture of colour into a glorious sea of purple clouds and goes to wake our brethren 'neath the western skies; and we are plunged in darkness. Everything seems to disappear into an all-pervading gloom; only the hills and the eternal snows stand undefeated amid the watchful stars, like sentinels at their posts. In the mellow-light of the moon, they begin to smile once more, clothed in shining sheen, their beauty undiminished, their glory unspent. They stand as emblems of life, beauty, and hope; the goal of the mountaineers' dream and the throne of the gods that be. In their splendour and beauty, we unfold the mystery of creation, and realize the eternal glory of the Creator.

CLIVE HOUSE CONCERT.

On Saturday the 7th of August, Clive House provided the first of a series of four House Concerts. The monsoon had done, and was still doing its worst, and our spirits, to put it gently, were waterlogged. A bright show was just the thing we needed, and Clive House did not disappoint us.

The House string trio, accompanied by Mrs. Coombes, played a light breezy march, and after that the screen lifted time and again on some very original, amusing, and entertaining scenes. The P. T. squad (in which featured certain Clive personalities whom other Houses can but strive in vain to impersonate!) and "A Slight Miscalculation" (in which Afridi as an irate father harrangues his youthful off-spring, Stidston Minor, for certain misdemeanours, which later turn out to be his own) kept an appreciative audience laughing heartily.

After the short interval, there was a thrilling one act play, a modern detective story entitled "The Black Overcoat". The Worthington jewels had been stolen and the smart "sleuth" Curtis' investigations in the case lead to suspicion attaching itself to Chief Inspector Woodruff himself. That worthy pillar of the intelligence Department is annoyed and confused, but Curtis eventually gets James, Woodruff's obsequious butler, to put on the Black Overcoat. It fits him perfectly and the whole mystery is cleared up.

Don Hill as Inspector Woodruff. Gregory as Curt's, and Stidston Minor as James the Butler, took their parts admirably, and it was mainly to their efforts and to Mr. Ellicott's directing that we were indebted for an evening's good entertainment.

LAWRENCE HOUSE CONCERT.

After two postponements Lawrence House presented their concert on the 17th of September, and everybody enjoyed an entertainment of a very high order.

The curtain rose on the entire House dressed as sailors, wearing caps of amber and black—their House colours. The effect was excellent, and the rousing chorus of the "King's Navy" started the evening's entertainment. Never before has an opening-chorus been known to be repeated, but the whole was so spectacular and the audience so persistent, that the scene had to be gone through again. Then followed a violin solo by Mr. Hargraves, which was the only stringed item of the evening, and was greatly appreciated by all. As one of the Staff attached to the House, Mr. Hargraves did much in adding to the musical part of the programme. Mrs. Coombes must also be mentioned in this connection; she was of inestimable value both off the stage and on.

Then from the sublime the ridiculous was reached in items of "Kan-u-guess". These were in the nature of dumb charades of familiar antics such as tennis, catching butterflies, etc., and the climax was reached when the dumb mutes congregated in a confused mass, only to be found travelling in a third-class compartment!

A short sketch entitled "The 'ole in the Road" followed next. In this Mackertich ii as the "toff", Jefford as the unfortunate who had sat by the 'ole even through the Great War, and Gwyther i as the fussy old lady, all excelled themselves. Nobody expected that such a peaceful scene, staged in the shadow of a dim street lamp, would end in a terrific flash and explosion when the man in charge of the 'ole tapped a gas-pipe by mistake. There was yet another thrill when a bold toreador, impersonated by Beal, braved the frantic efforts of a bull, maddened by his red cloak. Gasper took the part of the ferocious animal, and a bull-fight of three most exciting rounds ended in a glorious victory for the bull, who after some resounding snorts, sauntered off the stage to the entire jubilation of the onlookers. We understand that the sulphurous fumes that emanated from the gaping nostrils of the ugly monster was responsible for a loss of sleep in the Junior School. The next items were purely of topical interest. Galstaun, above all others, distinguished himself by some very clever impersonations of members of the Staff.

After the interval, there was a sketch entitled "Slasher and Crasher". This depicted two gallant young men whose amorous leanings towards Rosa, a charming girl of twenty, and Dinah, who was considerably advanced in years, were revealed in their true light by a letter brought in by the waiter. Benjamin Blowhard, the guardian of the two girls, then reached a pitch of furious anger and turned the two impostors out of the house. Headwards took the role of Rosa, Edmunds that of Dinah, whilst Duffy as Crasher and Mackertich i as Slasher, played their parts excellently. The irritable Blowhard was well portrayed by Mr. Coombes. The situation culminated in the last scene when pistols were fired and swords were drawn—all staged in an attempt to make old Blowhard believe that Slasher and Crasher were really a pair of desperadoes, and not the cowards he supposed them to be. The sketch ended with an amicable settlement. Slasher took his Rosa, Crasher his Dinah, and old Blowhard was liberal with his blessings. A closing chorus to the tune of the "Toreador Song" from Faust, ended a very pleasing entertainment.

HOWLERS.

Extract from a Divinity paper:—

Paul stopped his preaching and comes out from third storey and finds that Eutychus is dead. So he placed his feet on his feet, his face on his face, and his eyes on his eyes, and his everything which means the whole of his body on his body, and he said "Eutychus arise," and Eutychus rose.

CADETS 1937.

NO. 1. PLATOON N.B.M.R.

This year has been one of hard work and consequently a great improvement has been made. The strength of the platoon was increased by the enrolment of recruits. The early part of the year was spent in bringing them up to standard, and in preparing the Cadets for the Coronation Parade on May 12th.

Rapid progress was made under Corporal Quinn, who soon proved himself a very capable instructor. He made the work congenial and took a real interest in the Cadets. The platoon was complimented after the parade by H. E. Sir John Anderson. On June 9th we again turned out on the King's Birthday Parade, and were beginning to feel like "Old Soldiers" on the Market Square.

When these parades were over attention was turned chiefly to musketry. A course was arranged which each Cadet had to pass to be allowed to fire. We then commenced to train a team for the Baker Shield. This year it was to be fired on the 30 yards range at Lebong. Alas; we were the only entrants, and so the competition was cancelled for 1937. We had got together quite a useful team and were very disappointed.

The platoon turned out a Guard of Honour for General Lindsay on Speech Day, and after much polishing and scrubbing, we presented 36 smart Cadets who put up a really fine performance.

On November 10th we fired our course at Lebong, and some excellent shooting was seen. About 50 per cent. returned marksmen scores, and the rest were first class shots. The standard of the shooting proved the value of the musketry course the Cadets had gone through under Corporal Quinn. I was informed when Corporal Quinn came to us, that he was a very good instructor in musketry. He certainly showed it here, and improved the standard of our shooting remarkably.

The School Cadet Corps

Bapty surprised us all by winning the Webb Cup; he had not been very successful on the 30 yards range at Jalapahar, but at Illebong he shot consistently well all day, and returned the score of 76 out of 85. The Grant-Gordon Cup was won by Roy Major, who has improved tremendously this year, and the McGuineley Cup for recruits by Lamond Major, after a tie between himself, Hill and Lindsay-Smith.

The following were the N.C.O.'s for the year. Company Sergeant Major Beard, Sergeant Duffy, Corporal Lingwood, Corporal Mackertich and Lance Corporal Palit.

SPORTS DAY.

The Annual School Sports took place on Saturday the 9th of October. After a week of almost incessant rain which seriously threatened to necessitate their postponement, we were finally favoured with delightful weather.

Many visitors and parents were present, and a thoroughly entertaining programme of events was witnessed, for which Mr. Coombes and all those who helped him are to be congratulated. At the interval tea was served on the lawns.

A One Mile open race was introduced this year, for which Mr. Ouvry presented a Challenge Cup. It was won by Palit i of Havelock House.

Only one existing record was broken, which was hardly surprising after the number set up last year. Mackertich i broke the record for Putting the Shot with a put of 31-ft. 4½-ins. Duffy however equalled Grant's record of 1936 when he ran the 100 yards in 10 secs. Altogether he had a very successful afternoon, and his ability in the field events as well as in the sprint races were responsible for his winning the Senior Victor Ludorum. In Class iii there were some very interesting finishes between Hill and Sherman.

The Senior Inter-House Cup was won by Clive, with Lawrence a close second. It was unfortunate for Hastings that owing to sickness they had lost the services of two of their best athletes. As it was Havelock came third, and Hastings fourth. The Inter-House relay and the Tug-of-war were both won by Clive, with Havelock second in each.

At the conclusion of the events Mrs. Sachse very kindly distributed the prizes.

DARJEELING AND DISTRICT ATHLETIC SPORTS.

At North Point on October 15th.

Under the captaincy of H. Grant we entered a strong team for the Dewar Inter-School Shield, and we also sent in a number of boys for some of the Open events. In the latter Mackertich major got 1st. place in the High Jump and 2nd in the Hurdles, while Duffy ran well to obtain 2nd place in the 220 yards.

The boys ran splendidly as a team, while D. Hill was outstanding, winning four events outright. Our "A" team won the Relay quite easily, and for the first time in our history we won the Shield, defeating St. Joseph's by 123 points to 80.

All credit is due to our Athletic Captain, H. Grant, and to all the members of the team for their willingness to take advice and for their keenness during a long and often trying period of training.

The following were the results:—

EDINBURGH SHIELD.

ST. PAUL'S SCHOOL Vs. ST. JOSEPH'S COLLEGE.

At North Point.

This was a very enjoyable and even game, curtailed and eventually ruined by rain.

St. Joseph's batted first, and after a bad start the innings was pulled round by a fine partnership between Mr. Greene and Loader. Our fielding was poor and was partly responsible for the total of 235. Overnight we lost 3 wickets for 14 runs, but in the morning the Rector and Beard batting cautiously took the score to 70. Messrs. Henson and Coombes further improved the position, but after Mr. Coombes was out, a collapse ensued. It was left to Lingwood and Mackertich to take the score to 236 amidst tense excitement. Thus we led on the 1st innings by 1 run.

In their 2nd innings St. Joseph's collapsed before some good bowling and keen fielding, but rain robbed us of a possible victory.

ST. PAUL'S SCHOOL Vs. PLANTERS.

In their first innings the Planters scored 203, thanks to a good innings by A. Emmet, and some very bad fielding by the School. The bowling was always steady, particularly that of the Rector and Beard.

Our batting collapsed after a long day in the field, but Beard and Bapty pulled the game round by resolute and determined batting. The "follow-on" was saved, but a second collapse ensued, and the School was out for 124.

Rain then deprived the game of any further interest.

The feature of the game was the excellent batting of Beard and Bapty when the side was desperately in need of runs.

ST. PAUL'S SCHOOL Vs. MILITARY XI.

A very interesting and exciting game ended in a tie on the 1st innings, each side scoring 212 runs.

The batting never really mastered the bowling. The School batted first, and Messrs. Coombes and Henson put us in a strong position, but the later batsmen collapsed before some good bowling by West.

The 1st innings of the Military was remarkable for a magnificent century by Lt. Wilsor, who was not dismissed until their score also stood at 212. The School fielding was poor, and some vital catches were dropped.

After this excitement the match lost most of its interest.

Match Drawn. Tie on 1st Innings.

ST. PAUL'S SCHOOL Vs. ST. JOSEPH'S COLLEGE.

At North Point.

This was the first match in the history of the two schools played between representative XIs of boys; no masters were included.

St. Paul's won the toss and batted first. Thanks to a fine stand by Beard and Bapty we were soon in a strong position, though we started badly.

Beard batted cautiously and was severe on the loose balls only, while Bapty, after having one or two lives, earned his Colours with a quick 100.

Duffy and Lingwood also batted well, and the side was all out for 287. St. Joseph's replied with 188 for 7 wickets, Garbis their captain playing attractively for 44.

Our bowling, apart from Beard and Duffy, was not convincing, but our fielding was good. We had the better of the argument in a very interesting game, and Beard proved himself an able captain. It was the first time that an XI of boys had represented St. Paul's at Cricket, and right well they did it. This should prove a turning point in the Cricket history of the School.

FOOTBALL.

The football season this year was very successful, except from the point of view of winning trophies. We had one of the best 1st XIs that St. Paul's School has ever seen, but we just failed to win the Herlihy Cup. The side, which contained seven old colours, quickly developed into a team in the true sense of the word. There was no outstanding personality in this year's XI as there was last year in Beard Major, but each man did his work well. It was quickly realised that we lacked a centre-half and the Rector was asked to play in that position. He filled a real gap, and the team made rapid progress under his constructive leadership.

Roy major in goal was very safe and often spectacular. Afridi and Bapty made a very sound pair of full-backs. Bapty was undoubtedly the best full-back in Darjeeling, his clearances being constructive, for when he had time, he carefully directed his kicking. Afridi made him an ideal partner and was playing splendidly until June 22nd, when he had a nasty accident in jumping to head the ball. After he had recovered, it took him some time to regain his confidence.

The half-backs were a tower of strength to the team, Duffy doing two men's work, and with one leg! Mackertich was also very much improved, his tackling being very sound. The Rector at centre-half played a real leader's part. When necessary he played an attacking game and at other times defended well. His constructive play was an important factor in the success of the team.

Among the forwards Beard, Maung, and Lingwood were the chief goal scorers. All did sterling work. Maung surprised us at the beginning of the season by the way in which he seized his opportunities, and put the ball out of the goal-keeper's reach into the net.

As will be seen from the results of the matches played, not a single game was lost until we played the final of the Herlihy Cup Competition. In the first round of the Cup we met "A" Company K.O.S.B. Regiment on our own ground, and after an excellent game, we won the match by one goal to nil, Maung obtaining a fine opportunist goal. In the semi-final we met Goethal's School at North Point, and this match we won by 3 goals to 1.

The final was a memorable match. For the greater part of the game we were the better team, and at full time each side had scored one goal, Beard obtaining ours with a "header" from a corner. During extra time it rained hard, and Roy had the disappointing experience of allowing a simple shot to slip through his hands into the net. Our team played fine football against a much heavier side, and the whole district was proud of their performance.

We had two very enjoyable friendly matches with Goethal's School: we lost at Kurseong, and won at Jalapahar. Beard worked wonders with a wet ball in the match at St. Paul's. We hope to repeat these friendly fixtures.

Beard, Duffy, Roy, Afridi and Bapty had the honour to be selected to play for the "Civilians" against the "Military" on July the 31st, and materially helped to bring about the defeat of the Military side by 3 goals to nil.

The Rector's Cup was won by St. Joseph's, their Junior XI being bigger and stronger than ours. Our 1st XI drew at North Point and won at home. Our Junior team played pluckily in both games, but were beaten by a better side.

House matches were keenly fought, and with an increased number of boys in the houses, teams were stronger and better balanced, and some very good games were witnessed. There were no runaway victories. Clive were the winners with 38 points, and Hastings were runners-up with 27 points.

At the end of term the Mickey Mug was again competed for. This time there were 6 teams, and each team played the other at football and hockey.

This meant much rearranging of sides when it was time to change from hockey to football. The Yorkshire Yokels with Beard for Captain won the Senior competition, being consistently good at both games. The Busti Bunglers won the Junior competition.

HOCKEY.

This year has been a very uneventful one. Misfortune dogged the footsteps of a most promising XI, especially when after a great deal of difficulty, a right back was found in Beckdahl, who came into prominence quite unexpectedly. He completed a very strong defence, and with Mr. Warren leading the attack, we had high hopes of winning the Pliva Shield, the most coveted trophy in the District. But it was not to be. A most unfortunate accident in the Laboratory to Mr. Coombes' hand, two hours before the match, kept him out of the School side against the District XI. This meant reshuffling the whole team, and no less than five members had to play out of their normal positions. We lost a memorable match, the only goal being scored off a corner-hit in the first half. We were unfortunate not to have equalised in the second half, and had we but taken our chances, should even have obtained the lead. We congratulate the District XI most warmly on finally winning the Shield.

In the ordinary matches we did very well, losing only two of the eighteen games we played. We entered a second XI for the Pliva Shield this year, and they too had very bad luck when they lost to St. Mary's, the winning goal being scored in the last minute of play. In St. Mary's next match, they all but beat Victoria, who just managed to draw level about twenty seconds from the end. This gives one a very fair idea of the strength of our second XI.

The House Matches were as thrilling as ever. The Hockey Cup was won by Lawrence House, with Clive a close second. 1st XI colours were awarded to Beckdahl, and to Jefford who developed into a very fine goal-keeper. With some of our Old-Colours returning next year, we should have just as strong a team as we had this year, and we hope for better fortune.

BOXING.

Training for boxing commenced at the opening of the Hockey season, two days in the week being allotted to it. Every sport should have some incentive, and so we tried to arrange a tournament with another school. We were therefore very pleased when Goethals agreed to meet us. The boys showed great keenness and went into intensive training. The early mornings were kept strictly for exercise and road-work to build up stamina, whilst the afternoons were given over to sparring and instruction. It came as a great disappointment when we learnt that Goethals were unable to fight.

Those who were to appear in the Gymkhana Boxing Tournament on October the 15th, were given special attention.

The first fight in which we were represented was a special contest between Loving and Maung ii. The boys were well matched and gave a demonstration of good clean boxing, Loving gaining a hard earned victory.

Maung i's opponent was Tsering Bhutan, a Bhutia boy entered by Raja Dorjie. Maung boxed coolly, but did not take full advantage of his opportunities. His victory was well deserved.

Beard, who has shown great improvement since the beginning of the year, met Corporal Watts of the D.C.L.I. The fight was a very good one, Beard giving a display of cool and clever boxing, and of the two, was in the better condition. His punch has developed considerably, and he used both hands to good effect. If he learns to follow up his advantages, he should gain a number of knock-out victories. The decision was awarded to him.

Great enthusiasm was shown over the House Boxing Tournament. From the first round to the finals good and spirited boxing was witnessed. It was a pleasure to see boys who were thought to have little chance putting all they had into the fights, and, if not winning, at least losing honourably. It would be impossible to name all those who fought well.

David i, who met Chaytor early in the tournament, is to be congratulated on putting up an exceedingly plucky exhibition for which he was awarded the Best Loser's Cup.

The finals were held on Tuesday the 9th of November at 7 p.m., at which Capt. MacLaren very kindly consented to referee. At the end he gave a short speech mentioning four major points of boxing, and commenting on the good spirit shown. The results of the final rounds of the House Boxing were as follows:—

Mosquitoes: Wells ii vs. Naidu ii (Winner—Wells ii).

A keenly contested bout, in which Wells proved himself to be the superior boxer.

Flies: Martin iv vs. Strong ii (Winner—Martin iv).

A very good fight, Martin showing how the disadvantage of a short reach could be counteracted by in-boxing.

Bantams: Maung ii vs. Loving (Winner—Maung ii).

Feathers: Strong i vs. Martin ii (Winner—Strong i).

Strong took advantage of his reach and showed promise of developing a hard punch.

Lights: Maung i vs. Hochstein (Winner—Maung i).

Hochstein put up a plucky display against a stronger and more experienced boxer.

Welters: Bhattacharjee i vs. Mackertich ii (Winner—Bhattacharjee i).

Mackertich fought back well, but his punches were far less effective than those of his opponent, thus putting a greater strain upon his stamina.

Middles: Beard vs. Lingwood (Winner—Beard).

Lingwood scratched on medical grounds.

Light-Heavies: Duffy vs. Afridi (Winner—Duffy).

A close fight in which Duffy was the quicker of the two, and did most of the attacking. Afridi did not make use of his reach, and discovered his mistake too late for it to make any difference to the result.

Heavies: Mackertich i gained a walk-over.

FIVES CLUB.

Another very successful year has just drawn to a close and the game is as popular as ever. The proposed alterations and improvements to the courts did not materialise owing to lack of funds, and it is very probable that we shall have to wait for some time before the desired changes can be effected.

Nevertheless our membership increases, and many happy hours have been spent in the courts. We were pleased to see Rev. Beynon playing on so many occasions, his great enthusiasm being no whit less than his skill.

This year we introduced a new feature in the way of an Open Doubles Tournament, which was exceedingly well patronised and proved very popular. We congratulate Bapty and Lingwood on their success which was well merited. The details of the tournament are given below. We hope to make this an annual affair to be played chiefly during the Monsoon Term.

The House Fives Championship this year was won by Lawrence by one point from Clive, the destination of the cup being undecided until the final match between the first pairs of those Houses. We congratulate Lawrence on their success. The results and points are given below.

Whilst there have been no outstanding players of the calibre of Beard major who left us last year—Bapty is the most improved player. Being left handed he was a great source of trouble to his opponents. The previous standard of play has generally been maintained, and we are looking forward to renewing our acquaintance with the game when another school year begins in 1938.

This list of Old Boys who fell in the Great War was published in the School Chronicle of 1935. At that time it was regretted that this list was incomplete. We now earnestly request those who can supplement the above list with regard to rank and decoration, to write to the Rector without delay.

It is hoped to erect and dedicate the Roll of Honour towards the close of 1939, in Memory of the sons of St. Paul's who made the great sacrifice.
